MKT 3320 CONSUMER BEHAVIOR (3 credits)

Consumers purchase, use, experience, and dispose of products and services as part of their consumption process. How and why consumers choose various brand options, form judgments about these brands, and decide which options to buy and/or re-buy are essential knowledge for marketing professionals. The course covers the psychological and social issues that guide consumption decisions. (Cross-listed with BSAD 8345).

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better; 2.5 GPA or better; or permission of instructor.

MKT 3340 OMNI CHANNEL MARKETING (3 credits)

This course is designed to provide students with an overview of the omnichannel marketing landscape. Omnichannel marketing focuses on creating a seamless shopping experience through the integration of multiple channels. Attention is paid to how modern-day retailers can create a holistic and highly personalized experience for customers.

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better; and GPA of 2.5 or better; or permission of instructor.

MKT 3350 MARKETING SERVICE PRODUCTS (3 credits)

This elective explores how intangibility forces customers to evaluate service products differently, creating more challenges for marketers. The course is based on the premise that financial benefits reward services that provide value to customers, and develops strategies for creating value.

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with a 'C+' or better; GPA of 2.5 or better; or permission of instructor. Not open to non-degree graduate students.

MKT 3360 DIGITAL MARKETING COMMUNICATIONS (3 credits)

This course is designed to familiarize students with digital marketing concepts and applications. It provides a detailed understanding of relevant digital channels and platforms that companies use as part of their marketing mix. The course is structured to guide students through paid, earned, and owned digital media as part of a comprehensive digital marketing communications strategy. The course employs a mixture of lecture, discussion, simulation games, and sponsored consulting projects with real-world companies.

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better and GPA of 2.5 or better; or permission of instructor.

MKT 3370 SOCIAL MEDIA MARKETING (3 credits)

This course is designed to familiarize students with social media marketing concepts and applications. It provides a detailed understanding of relevant social media channels and platforms that companies use as part of their marketing mix. Students will apply their knowledge from class by completing several in-class exercises as well as graded assignments. The course employs a mixture of lecture, discussion, simulation games, and sponsored consulting projects with real-world companies.

Prerequisite(s): Completion of MKT 3310 with a C+ or better.

MKT 3380 INTERNATIONAL MARKETING (3 credits)

A study of the processes, procedures, characteristics and environments for goods and services in foreign market places. Reference is drawn to the theories and concepts of domestic marketing to appraise their applicability to international markets. Considerable attention is given to the features of the foreign market environments which both facilitate the marketing processes, inhibit them, and require strategies and tactics of accommodation.

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better; GPA of 2.5 or better.

MKT 3390 GRAPHIC DESIGN FOR MARKETERS (3 credits)

The course provides a hands-on introduction to the concepts and tools used in graphic design to create marketing communications. Material and assignments will focus on how design supports marketing communication strategy. Students will learn the principles and vocabulary of design, how to critique graphic design, and how to create basic print materials. Students will learn and practice the skills necessary to communicate with graphic designers and advertising professionals in order to successfully implement marketing strategies.

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better; 2.5 GPA or better.

MKT 3400 MARKETING INNOVATION (3 credits)

Product, service, and process innovation are essential drivers of firm performance. However, firms face considerable and complex challenges when bringing innovative ideas to life. For example, what marketing research methods should we employ to uncover vital consumer insights? How do these insights influence the development and launch of new products and services? What differentiated value are we delivering to our consumers? How do we successfully bring this new product or service to market? How does a brand's purpose and personality influence consumers' perceptions, purchase decisions, adoption, and engagement? This course will cover key marketing principles involved in the development and launch of new and innovative products and services - from conception to commercialization. Furthermore, we will explore how new-age technologies impact each stage of the development and launch processes. (Cross-listed with BSAD 8435).

Prerequisite(s): MKT 3310 with 'C+' or better; 2.5 GPA or better; or permission of instructor.
